Buck's Amlico Service Station, 3rd and Walnut Streets, will celebrate its official opening Friday and Saturday with an open house program, James (Buck) Rogers.

The most important thing about BAKING

It's the balance of ingredients in baking powder that governs its leavening action. Only when these are perfectly balanced can you be sure of uniform action in the mixing bowl plus that final rise to light and fluffy texture in the oven. That's the story of Clabber Girl's balanced double action.

has announced valuable door prizes, including a boy's or girl's bicycle, an electric blanket, and a radio reel set will be awarded at the close of business Saturday.

Four additional prizes include a Fina motor oil change.

A set of four beverage glasses will be given away with each $2 or more purchase of Fina Supreme or Fina Gasoline, according to Rogers.

There will also be a limited number of free lubrication certificates passed out to early visitors to the station, and Rogers says that all of his friends and neighbors will be invited to the two-day celebration. "Incidentally, no entrance is necessary to the door prizes," he said.

The station and the type American Petroleum is now constructing throughout its 13-state marketing area, and makes liberal use of glass and aluminum.

Fina is the brand name of American Petroleum, the nation's newest integrated oil company. The company began operations 2 years ago with a merger with Panhandle Oil Corporation and later acquired the complete holdings of American Liberty Oil Company, both Dallas-based firms. Early this year the company made its third major acquisition in a purchase of the Petro-Atlas Corporation, and a wholly owned subsidiary, El Dorado Refining Company, El Dorado, Kansas. Fina Supreme and Fina Gasolines are

For some time the commission has been checking charges that registrars in Alabama's Macon County have kept Negroes from voting. Last Oct. 20, the commission demanded records from the county's Voter Registration Board. The board, following Patterson's advice, refused.

It is this refusal that prompted the commission to set up the Montgomery hearing. More than Macon County, however, may be considered. Complaints have been received from other counties, and the commission may take them up together.

Bears Wrecking Telephone Poles

WARREN, N.H. (AP) — Bears are wrecking New England Telephone Co. poles here in a misguided search for honey.

The company says the bears hear the humming of the wires and believe the noise is caused by honey.

Some 50 poles are under attack. Harold M. Robinson, the company's plant personnel supervisor, said:

"Almost all of them show evidence of bear visitations but the worst ones have been cut off to a depth of two or three inches."

He said, "They stand on their hind legs and swing at the poles with their front feet, about five feet above the ground."

Wreck Blamed on Broken Heel
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bing Crosby's wife blames a broken high heel for an auto collision that hurt her and sent another motorist to hospital Wednesday.

A few hours earlier the actress' son, Gary, was involved in a similar rear-end smashup.

Police said Mrs. Crosby's powder blue sports car struck the rear of a car stopped at a traffic light and knocked it 75 feet.

Mrs. Crosby — actress Kathryn Grant, 23 — suffered a cut chin, other minor injuries and shock.

She told police that when she tried to apply the brakes, the heel of her shoe broke and she pushed the accelerator.

The driver of the other car, Herman Magad, 60, Los Angeles, complained of back and head injuries.

A car driven by Gary, 25, eldest of Bing's five sons, was in a collision in Beverly Hills Tuesday night. He was not hurt.

Strike Forces Chrysler to Close Plants

CHICAGO (AP) — A strike of some 31,500 United Auto Workers International Harvester Co. plants and employees today shut down throughout the nation.

Picket lines were reported as early as the strike went off at 7 a.m., local time, in 15 plants.

Efforts to avert the walkout failed Wednesday night after federal mediators met with management and labor officials.

Union and management representatives planned another session today.

The UAW gave the go-ahead for the strike after the company rejected a union package proposal for a new contract to reduce the one which expired Aug. 1. Since that date UAW members have continued to work under an extension of the old contract.

Duane Greathouse, UAW vice president and director of its agricultural division, said:

Crittenden Deer Hunters Disgruntled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Disgruntled deer hunters have complained to the Arkansas Game & Fish Commission that Crittenden County landowners have virtually closed deer-hunting to the public.

Crittenden was permitted to include deer in the seven-day season which started Monday because of the overpopulation of female deer and the resulting crop damage caused by enlarged herds.

Gus Albright of the Game & Fish Commission said that the Crittenden County farmers had asked for relief from the crop damage and seemed satisfied that an open season of deer would help.

"Apparently they had a change of heart a few days before the season opened and most of them posted their lands and even had patrolmen out to warn hunters that they were not permitted to shoot," Albright said.

"Much of Crittenden County hunting is done on Private Club leases and there is not a lot of hunting area for public hunters," he said.

Private clubs agreed to take only bucks despite the open season on does because they apparently were fearful that doe-killing would deplete the herds.

Albright said reports today from Crittenden indicated 10 does and 40 bucks had been harvested.

He said in his opinion 300 does could have been harvested without hurting the future deer crop.

In all of Arkansas, through yesterday, hunters killed 3,960 deer legally. There were 45 illegal kills. This represented about 700 to 800 more kills than the first three days of last year.

"We had a good growing year and our deer herd was just that much larger," Albright said.

Mississippi Baptists Ask Hays to Quit

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Baptist Laymen of Mississippi asked Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark) today to resign as president of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Hays, 60, was defeated for a ninth term by Dr. Dale Alford, a segregationist member of the Little Rock School Board, in last week's general election.

Alford, a last-minute write-in candidate, charged Hays had been too moderate on the integration issue. Hays, who acted as an unsuccessful mediator between President Eisenhower and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus in last fall's Central High School integration crisis, was beaten by only 1,200 votes in Arkansas' six-county Fifth Congressional District.

L. U. Ammons of Jackson, president of the Baptist Laymen of Mississippi, said in a telegram to Hays:

"Recent publicity incident to your campaign for re-election was most distasteful to Southern Baptists. (The lack of confidence) expressed by the vote of your district in the write-in election of your opponent also reflects upon the Southern Baptists.

Though honest in your convictions, we believe you have outlived your usefulness as president of the Southern Baptist convention and urge your immediate resignation. Such action would help to restore the solidarity to Southern Baptists who are firm believers in Southern traditions.

"Dr. Chester L. Quarles, a native of Mississippi now serving as first vice president of the Southern Baptist Convention, is recognized as a conservative non-political Baptist leader having exercised his ability to rescue our convention from the left-wing element. Your resignation would automatically promote Dr. Quarles to presidency of the convention. Such action would also restore Southern Baptist emphasis upon matters of the spiritual world."

The laymen's organization has no direct connection with the state Baptist convention now in session here, but is composed of individuals who are members of Baptist churches in the state. Its total membership was not available.

Gale and Cross Fortnight, Amiable Men

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Gale and Perry Cross of "County Fair" (NBC-TV) are such amiable, forthright men that you'd like to say they're running one of the finest television programs on the air.

Because of my personal viewing preferences I can't say that. But it can be reported that in the course of a few weeks "County Fair" has won the largest viewing audience of any afternoon program on NBC-TV.

With Bert Parks as master of ceremonies, the program combines audience participation with straight performing and seeks constantly to surprise its viewers. For example, you may see such things as a former prizefighter trying to punch his way out of a paper bag.

Gale, bandleader for the program, is co-owner of Gale-Gerhardt Productions, Inc., and one of the top advertising jingle writers in the country. Cross, the program's producer, has a host of TV production credits.

They were saying the other day that in "County Fair" they are presenting a variety of entertainment with emphasis on the element of surprise.

I ventured the opinion that I, personally, found the program a little

"The word is corn," said Gale. "But you forget that we're out to entertain several million people — and we are. If something will make you laugh, it's on 'County Fair'."

Cross said that "Escape entertainment is mandatory at some time of the day and we find that we're offering relaxation and laughter to viewers at the end of the working day."

The program, which has a history dating back to radio days before it was launched with a new television format this season, is concerned with what Cross calls basics. That is, it deals with familiar things like dogs, romance, the band, for example, plays jazz in the style of the 1920s.

Both pointed out that the show bustles with vitality and good humor but does not go in for the old pie-throwing antics.

The show seeks to interest viewers of all ages. Cross and Gale emphasized. Take a look at it for yourself and see what you think.

College Budget Hearing Closed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Legislative Council yesterday wound up hearings on budget requests of six state-supported colleges apparently willing to grant increases but unwilling where the money would come from.

All six requests about twice as much for the next two years as they now get.

Council members seemed in favor of recommending that the Legislature approve the colleges' appropriations but they reached no

Friends Would Protect Nixon From Attack

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Friends apparently are moving in to prevent Vice President Nixon from becoming something of a sitting duck for attacks by Republicans opposing his presidential ambitions.

Nixon took in obviously irritated silence Wednesday a fresh assault from an old foe, Harold E. Stassen, who tried unsuccessfully to dump the vice president from second place on the 1956 ticket.

Talking with newsmen at the White House, Stassen pointedly omitted the vice president's name from a list of four possibilities Stassen said could carry the GOP to victory in 1960.

Although Nixon did not comment, Secretary of Labor Mitchell conclusion on how the extra money could be raised. Final action on the budgets was deferred.

The council also put off action on the budget request of the state Publicity and Parks Commission, which asked for $619,000 in fiscal 1959 and $612,350 in 1960.

Ted Woods, commission director, was asked to give a breakdown of the commission's spending from its cash fund before the council acted on the budget.

did Mitchell said Nixon "ought to be and will be the next President of the United States."

Stassen named Nelson A. Rockefeller, elected governor of New York; Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., defeated for Senate re-election in Massachusetts in 1952 and appointed ambassador to the United Nations; Secretary of Interior Seaton who deserted Stassen for Eisenhower in 1952; and Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, a former Texas Democrat now registered Republican.

Mitchell, who has been regarded as a possible aspirant for the 1960 vice presidential nomination, said "Mr. Stassen's views continue to reflect his unsuccessful vendetta against Vice President Nixon."

He added in a statement: "All of the men he mentioned are obviously men of ability and integrity and display the very great talent that exists in the Republican party. But in any discussion of 1960 Republican candidates it seems to me unthinkable to ignore Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the man who has time and again demonstrated the highest qualifications for the presidency."

In another statement, Republican National Chairman Meade A. Korn described as "totally unrealistic" any list of 1960 potentialities which omitted Nixon's name. Friends described Nixon as burned up that Stassen got the opportunity to express his views in the White House lobby after a conference with President Eisenhower. The timing and nature of the attack make it difficult for the vice president himself to answer it.

Trading Post Shows the New Mercury Friday

A brilliant combination of interior spaciousness for comfort, mechanical excellence, advanced design and superior performance and economy is presented by Mercury in its totally new cars for 1959—Mercury's 20th anniversary models. They will be on display Friday at the Trading Post in Hope.

"This new Mercury is the only medium-priced car designed to specifically and exclusively for the medium-price field—every other medium-priced car for 1959 shares its body shell with a low-priced car make," said Bob D. Willis, general manager of the M-L-D Division and a vice president of Ford Motor Company.

"The Mercury for 1959 is a big car—it has size for a purpose—its spaced-planned bodies provide a totally new experience in passenger comfort in both front and back seats," Mr. Willis declared. "And that's for three people in both seats," he emphasized.

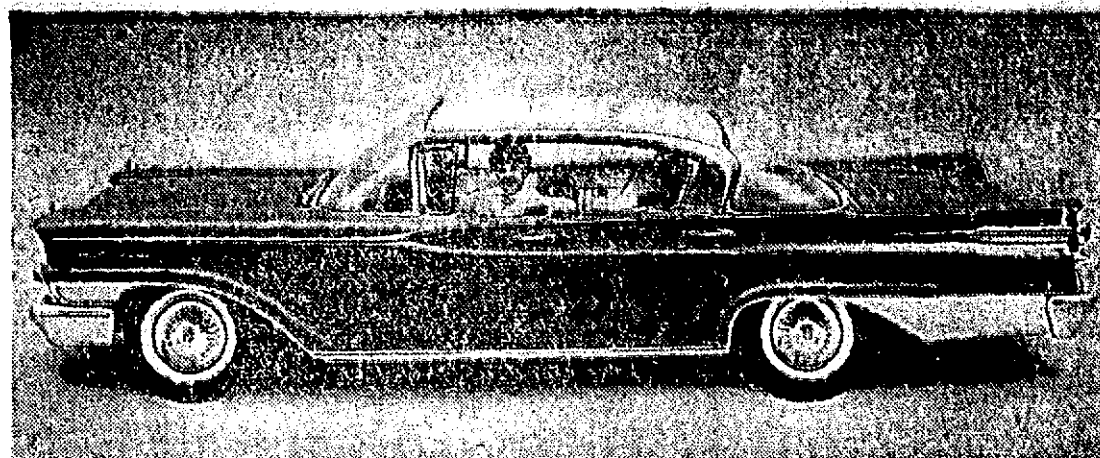

"The entire front seat and instrument panel area are re-designed to make spacious, major engineering developments result in cutting almost half the volume of space taken up by the transmission tunnel and the center of the car, thus reducing the interior space for passengers by greatly increasing leg room for those sitting in the middle of the front seat and by improving cushioning in both front and rear seats.

4-H Champ Turns Out to Be a Girl

SOUTHDEERFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Massachusetts' top 4-H chairman this year does most of the work with 53 animals and counts hunting and shooting as hobbies.

But make no mistake — the champ isn't a burly young man. Miss Joan Van Petersilge, 19, a pretty beauty school student, won the state title from among hundreds of 4-H club youths who specialize in dairying.

"Extension service officials can't remember when a girl last won the title.

Space-planned bodies which provide a totally new experience in passenger comfort in both front and back seats are presented by Mercury in its entirely new cars for 1959. In its 20th anniversary models, Mercury offers a brilliant combination of advanced design, mechanical excellence and superior performance and economy. Designed exclusively for the medium-price field, the new Mercury has 16 models in four series, including the only two-door station wagon in the medium-price range. New compound curved windshield and rear window increase glass area more than 60 per cent at the front and 46 per cent at the rear. Mercury's high-compression V-8 engines provide an exact blending of the most desirable features of economy and power. Pictured is the Park Lane four-door Cruiser.

Ike Calls on Johnson for Additional Aid

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration has called on Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) for another bipartisan task — discussion of continental problems with the incoming presidency of Mexico.

Johnson, the Senate's Democratic leader, is expected to go to Mexico City some time this month to confer personally with President-elect Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

In Congress and the State Department the invitation to Johnson to undertake the personal diplomatic mission to Mexico was regarded as an indication the administration wants to work closely with the party leader in shoring up Latin American relations.

It was the second bipartisan assignment Johnson has been asked to undertake this week. Previously Secretary of State Dulles had announced Johnson had agreed to speak in the United Nations in behalf of the American resolution for the peaceful uses of outer space.

Although Johnson heads the opposition party in the Senate, he has worked closely with the Republican administration at times, especially on problems involving foreign policy. He said in a speech last week the increased Democratic majorities in the new Congress will meet President Eisenhower at least halfway.

Johnson is generally expected to retain his post as Democratic leader when the Senate meets in January. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), one of an increased number of liberal Democrats in the new Senate, said Tuesday he has found no indications of dissatisfaction with Johnson's course.

One senator-elect reported Tuesday he understood Johnson had called the 13 Democrats newly elected to the Senate to meet with him at his Texas ranch next month.

Johnson, in a telephone interview, discounted talk of a pre-session meeting and said he had issued no blanket invitation for one.

But Senator-elect Frank E. Moss of Utah said later he had tentatively agreed to meet with Johnson Dec. 5, and got the impression in talking with Johnson that at least all the new Western Democratic senators would attend.

Johnson's visit to Mexico City is expected to precede Lopez Mateos' inaugural on Dec. 1. He will be representing not only the State

Political Boss of Boston Dies at 84

BOSTON (AP) — James Michael Curley, last of the big city political bosses, died at City Hospital. He would have been 84 Nov. 20.

Curley was a Democratic leader for more than half a century, serving four terms as mayor of Boston, one term as governor of Massachusetts and four as a congressman.

Slowly failing health had marked Curley's last years and he was long under treatment for diabetes.

Death came a few hours after a team of seven doctors performed a 55-minute emergency operation in an attempt to clear a clotting of the artery which supplies the small bowel.

He underwent surgery Nov. 4—Election Day—for an intestinal blockage and apparently was making satisfactory progress until Tuesday night. Earlier Tuesday he had walked the hospital corridor and had posed for newspaper photographers.

Tuesday night, Mrs. Curley and Curley's two sons, the Rev. Francis X. Curley, S. J., of Holy Cross College and George J. Curley of Boston, were summoned. Father Curley gave his father the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

Chrysler and UAW Reach Agreement

Chrysler and the UAW reached agreement five weeks ago on a new three-year contract for production workers, but settlement on demands of three locals representing approximately 32,900 engineers was left hanging.

Dodge assembly operations in suburban Hamtramck were shut at 11 a.m. and 3,500 production workers sent home. Chrysler said new car drivers refused to drive through pickets between the assembly line and loading docks.

A Plymouth assembly plant was closed and 1,200 sent home. Here, Chrysler said a shortage of bodies developed when drivers refused to cross picket lines to bring them into the plant.

Normally UAW members do not cross picket lines of fellow unionists and this would close all 34 plant where pickets appeared.

UAW headquarters announced there would be no strike at any missile or tank plant operated by Chrysler.

Major issues of conflict were demands of white-collar workers for area-wide seniority, an automatic pay progression step-up and a narrowing of differentials for similar work.

Douglas Fraser, UAW bargaining chief, said the company refused to change its position on any of these.

John D. Leary, Chrysler vice president in charge of personnel said salaried employees were offered economic and other benefits at least the equivalent of those accepted by the UAW for hourly-rated workers.

He listed these as company offers: A three per cent annual improvement factor wage increase; a cost-of-living increase; additional wage increases in a number of classifications; improved pensions; improved hospitalization and medical coverage; improved supplemental unemployment compensation and a separation pay plan.

Tuesday night, Mrs. Curley and Curley's two sons, the Rev. Francis X. Curley, S. J., of Holy Cross College and George J. Curley of Boston, were summoned. Father Curley gave his father the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church.

GENEVA (AP) — Delegates to the East-West conference on prevention of surprise attacks met for 90 minutes today, then issued a communique which merely said they continued to discuss "the plan of work of the conference."

Another meeting will be held Thursday. Since the opening session Monday, meetings have been in private.

Delegates are from Britain, France, the United States, Italy, Canada, the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Albania.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) —The first landing at the South Pole during this antarctic summer season will be made Sunday, the American headquarters for Operation Deep Freeze, announced today.

The headquarters at Christchurch said two Neptune patrol planes will fly in six U.S. Navy men and six International Geophysical Year workers. They will relieve men who have been at the South Pole almost a year.

MONTREAL (AP) —The bodies of eight men and five women have been recovered so far from the ruins of a mid-town apartment block destroyed in a weekend blaze. The fire is believed to have claimed at least 18 lives.

PARIS (AP) —France is having trouble finding plutonium for her atomic bomb, Pierre Guillaumat, army minister, said today.

This appeared to conflict with a statement by Premier de Gaulle on Oct. 23 when he said confidently, "Everyone knows that we now have the means to assure ourselves of nuclear arms and the day approaches when we in our turn will take part in tests."

France has yet to set off a nuclear explosion.

Can't Smile at Insults, Lewis Has Trouble

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jerry Lewis is flat on his back in a hospital suffering the tortures of a bleeding ulcer. He says it came from his inability to smile at insults.

An extraordinarily sensitive character, Jerry can be moved to tears by the slightest provocation.

A running feud with Hollywood's trade press and sharp attacks by a few columnists apparently felled the boue, 32-year-old comedian.

"It's not overwork that gave me this ulcer," Jerry raves. "So, I've done a few TV shows and two movies in a row. That doesn't bother me at all. I've been working hard for years."

"And it's not what you eat. It's what cats you that starts an ulcer."

Jerry spoke loggily from his flower-bedecked room at Mt. Sinai Hospital. He was heavily drugged with sedatives to relieve the pain. An efficient nurse hustled in to administer a pill.

"Get outa here, Sally," he howled. "How do you like this girl? She wakes me up at 6 a.m. to give me a needle so I can go back to sleep."

Licorice Between Meals

Sally smiled prettily and handed Jerry a small paper bag.

"Licorice bits," Jerry explained. "It's the only thing I'm allowed to eat between meals. The rest of the time I'm stuck with cottage cheese and pears. But I'm lucky. I like cottage cheese and pears."

The wacky funnyman grew serious, denying that recurrent blasts by Dean Martin (his ex-partner) have affected his health.

"That's all dead and over with," Jerry said. "I've been here for 10 days now and I haven't heard from Dean. I don't expect to. But that has nothing to do with my condition."

I suppose most of it is my weakness is sensitivity. I want to mature and do better things, but I don't want to learn to smile at insults. Bad reviews don't bother me, but the little unkind gossip things worry me to death. I'm happy here in the hospital because nobody says anything nasty about anyone else. There's no unkindness here."

Jerry has dispatched more than 200 bouquets to less fortunate patients in the hospital; most of them from TV and movie stars. His visitors include Danny Thomas, Ernie Borgnine, Jimmy Durante and Helen Traubel.

Touching Visit

"The nicest thing that's happened was a visit I had yesterday," Jerry said, subdued. "The door opened and there stood Cecil B. De Mille and Y. Frank Freeman — the two biggest men at Paramount Studios."

"It was really touching. They spent a whole hour with me. Neither of them had to be here. They just wanted to say hello."

Jerry was overcome for a moment, then he opened his good fortune.

"At first I thought all my trouble was from a bad heart," he concluded. "I was scared. Good and scared. Now I'm feeling better and worrying less about my health. But I still fret about unkind things people say about me."

"I can't expect the whole world to be on my side, but it breaks my heart when people don't like me."

Soviet Bear Only Growled, Failed to Bite

By REINHOLD ENSZ

BERLIN (AP) — West Berliners breathed more easily today because the Russian bear and its East German followers appeared — for the moment — to have more growl than bite.

The tipoff came in a news conference Wednesday by Premier Otto Grotewohl of Communist East Germany. Several hundred correspondents attended.

Most of them expected some sort of dramatic follow-up to Nikita Khrushchev's demand that the Western Allies give up West Berlin, a capitalistic thorn buried 110 miles inside Communist East Germany.

Many correspondents thought Grotewohl had been tapped by the Soviet premier to announce that the Russians were giving the East Germans control over Allied military traffic into West Berlin. The Allies prefer Russian control because this permits them to avoid recognizing the East German regime.

Grotewohl strode into the conference room 10 minutes late. He said he knew the correspondents expected something sensational but wouldn't get it from him.

What they got was nearly two hours of Communist verbiage about peace, German unification, the Berlin situation and the possibility of negotiations to get Soviet troops out of East Germany.

Throughout, Grotewohl gave the impression he may have received the word from Moscow. So when he mentioned negotiations about Soviet troops, the correspondents figured they had a sensation after all.

But six hours later the official Communist East German news agency ADN put out a correction which drastically changed Grotewohl's remarks about the troop negotiations.

In response to a question on Khrushchev's speech, Grotewohl said: "Yes, I interpret the week-end speech of Khrushchev to mean that the Soviet Union will re-examine the question with the aim of pulling out its troops. Perhaps there would have to be a proviso, that the Western Allies take the same step in West Germany."

The ADN correction eliminated the word "perhaps" and substituted "naturally." So Grotewohl now was saying that naturally the Western Allies would have to pull out when the Russians leave.

ALGIERS (AP) — A Moslem candidate for the French National Assembly has called for a French "melting pot" for Moslems similar to what the United States offered millions of European immigrants.

Robert Abdessalam, lawyer and internationally known tennis player, made his proposal Tuesday in the first formal campaign speech preceding the legislative elections Nov. 28-30.

"The United States has accepted millions of immigrants, giving them a feeling of belonging," he said. "We should follow the same road to integration."

HAVANA (AP) — After reporting the release of 31 persons from captured airplanes, the Cuban rebels held up today the return of army prisoners until the government explains an alleged violation of a truce.

The high command of rebel chief Fidel Castro announced today they handed over to the Red Cross 25 passengers, including an American, and 6 crewmen of two Cuban Airlines DC-3s.

The planes were seized in flight Oct. 21 and Nov. 5.

WARSAW (AP) — Wladyslaw Gomulka, Poland's Communist chief, returned from a "friendship tour" of the Soviet Union today.

VIENNA (AP) — Bulgarian courts have passed 31 death sentences in the past two years on Communist party and government officials who stole or embezzled state funds, according to the Warsaw newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

Declares Facts Offer Hope to Race Problem

By MERRILL SWEDLUND

FRENCH LICK, Ind. (AP)—A Southern newspaper editor said today accurate, complete facts offer the only hope for a solution of "the tragic conflict" over school integration.

In his annual report as president at the opening of The Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. convention, Columbia A. Harwell of the Nashville Tennessean said of the integration problem:

"Opinions are many and often extreme. They excite hatred, bitterness, violence. Amid all the resultant din and confusion, there is the constant and earnest query: what are the facts? Facts are the basis of reason, the only hope of a solution."

"A public that does not know the facts cannot act intelligently. A public that does not comprehend the facts is dangerous. That places a tremendous responsibility upon newspapers."

Reviewing the progress made in news presentation since the APME was founded in French Lick 25 years ago, Harwell called the AP "an example of democracy at its best, a rare combination of the genius of cooperation and of competition."

Two other speakers stressed community service at the opening session of the silver anniversary convention, attended by almost 400 editors and their wives.

Ben Reese, co-chairman of the advisory board of the American Press Institute at Columbia University, said a community has a right to expect its newspaper to "be a guardian of the town... try its best to preserve public virtue... fight for the rights of its readers."

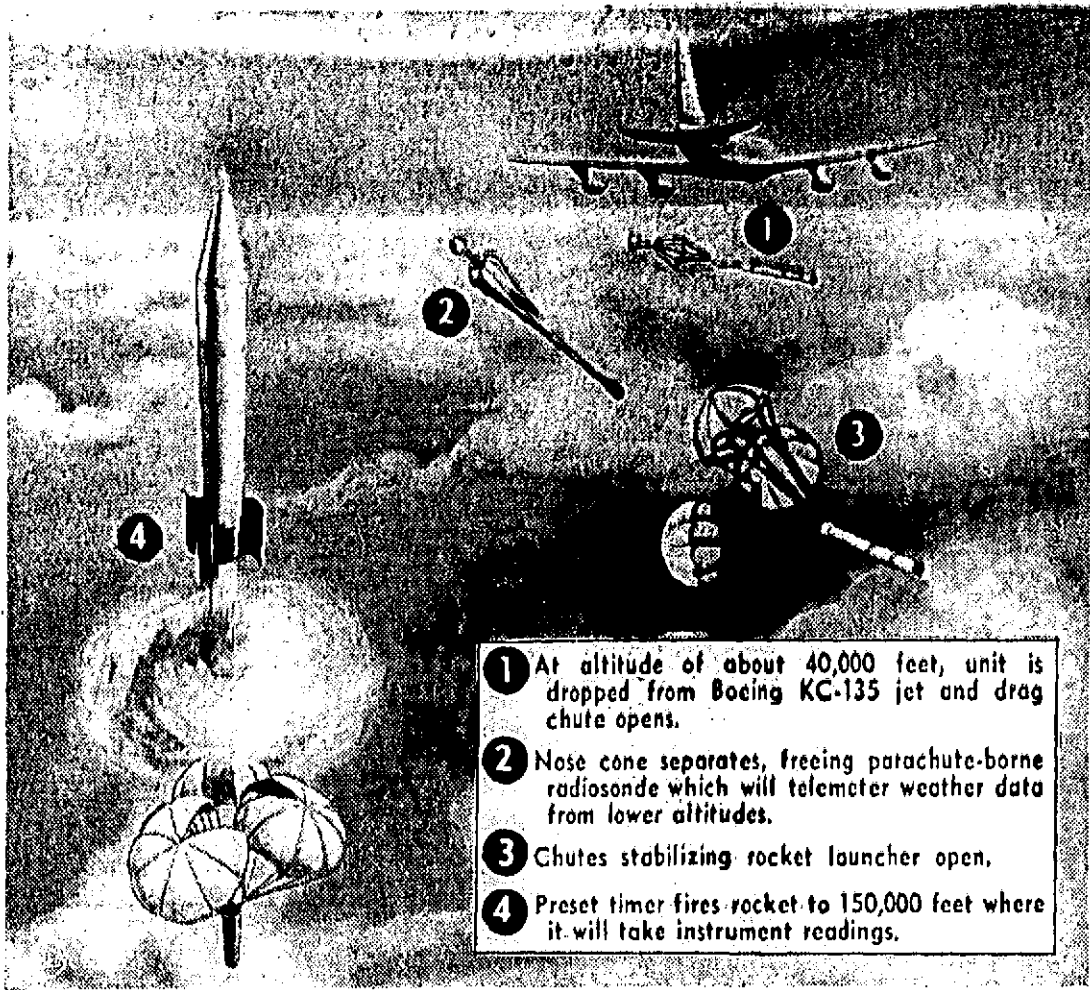

"Newspapers must make themselves indispensable," said Reese, a former managing editor of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. "Public service is a sure way to do it."

Louis M. Lyons, curator of the Nieman Foundation, Harvard University, said, "The problem of making our cities fit to live in still invites newspaper attention."

Lyons, whose foundation offers advanced study at Harvard for newspapermen, said the press generally lagged in reporting news about science and education and even the Supreme Court.

Recalling Adlai Stevenson's 1952 complaint about what he called a "one-party press," Lyons said:

"In most cities there is no debate in a political campaign. As the number of our papers shrinks, until most cities have only one,

JET-BORNE WEATHER PROBES—Radiosondes launched by a streaking four-engine jet plane are part of a new weather-sensing system being developed by Bendix Aviation Corp. for the U.S. Air Force. Engineer's sketch above shows how two types of measuring units will be carried in the same package (1). Parachute-borne radiosonde (2) will monitor at low altitudes, while one in rocket (4) will take readings at some 30 miles above the earth. The jets, literally "flying weather stations," will range 4,500 miles on each flight and continuously feed weather information to both military and civilian ground stations.

- 1 At altitude of about 40,000 feet, unit is dropped from Boeing KC-135 jet and drag chute opens.
- 2 Nose cone separates, freeing parachute-borne radiosonde which will telemeter weather data from lower altitudes.
- 3 Chutes stabilizing rocket launcher open.
- 4 Preset timer fires rocket to 150,000 feet where it will take instrument readings.

such a forum becomes increasingly impossible."

Vincent S. Jones, Rochester, N.Y., executive editor of the Gazette, reviewed news events and newspapering of the 25 years, using news pictures to illustrate the period.

"Twenty years ago, scenes of raw violence were common," Jones said in tracing the development of organized labor. "Today's battles are won at the bargaining table and on the voting machine."

Cuba's televised political conventions, Jones said, "The conventions on TV had their moments, but they bored as many people as they enthralled, because they couldn't be edited."

Firemen Hold Monthly Meeting

Members of the Prescott Fire Department met in their regular monthly meeting on Nov. 4 at the Davis Cafe. Burrell Whitmarsh delivered the invocation. Food was served and a conversation period followed.

Chief Cottingham called the meeting to order and the regular order of business was carried out. He gave a brief account of his recent big game hunt in Colorado. The Fire Dept. has recently become a unit of Civil Defense and officer of the National CD will deliver an address and give instructions about the duties of this unit on Nov. 11.

Secretary Garrett reported three minor fires for the month of October.

Judge Millwee May Retire This Week

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Associate Justice Miner Millwee of the Arkansas Supreme Court reportedly plans to file for disability retirement this week.

Capitol sources said Millwee, defeated for re-nomination by segregationist Jim Johnson of Crosssett, was advised by his doctor to leave the court as soon as possible.

Millwee, 57, declined to comment on the reports. He has been under medical treatment for a number of years.

The judge's current term on the court expires Dec. 31.

After Karen opened her gifts, games were played with prizes being won by Tena Bolton and Paula Parsons. Each one presented a fish bowl.

Ice cream, cold drinks and the chocolate birthday cake decorated in yellow and inscribed "Happy Birthday Karen" was served from a table covered with a Happy Birthday cloth.

CHAPTER XXII

The soft click of the latch as Amy closed the door behind her, snaggled, caught, and pulled her awake once more.

From the hall outside, she could hear voices. Aunt Millicent's saying something she could not understand in that new, nervous, indecisive tone of voice—the tone that meant danger now—and then Amy saying: "Poor little sweet thing! She went to sleep right away!"

Aunt Millicent's voice mumbled again; and then by the time Amy answered they had moved farther away down the hall, and the words had become a distant rustle, like the rain on the window, like the waves on the beach.

Katherine thought! So now they know! Everything's set up for them. They know that I'm in here alone, asleep; they can do anything they want to. I have to get away before they can catch up with me again.

And then suddenly she was in the grip of panic. She opened her eyes. She sat up and swung her feet over the side of the bed. The black room was filled with the whispering, rattling noises of the day's horrors. Maybe Paul and Aunt Millicent were already in the room, too.

She stood up hurriedly. The bed squeaked under her; she was not trying to be quiet, only to get away. She blundered across the room, unbuttoning her pajamas as she went. Her panic receded a little, she had to force herself to think of practical things. Clothes. Shoes. A raincoat.

She pulled out pants, socks, a skirt, a blouse, shaking each one and then touching it carefully to be sure she had what she wanted. She carried the pile of clothes over and laid it quietly down on the corner of the carpet. She took off the shirt of her pajamas, and then the trousers; she put on her pants, and stood quietly behind the curtain for a moment, listening. She was still alone in the room.

She put on her socks, and then her shoes, and tied the laces, wondering desperately what she was going to do now; she did not dare to venture out into the house, but the unseen menace outside the windows seemed even more terrible to her.

She put on her raincoat. She was ready to go. She held her breath again, and pushed the button. The distant whirring began, then the closer sounds, and the window slid back away from the wall.

The curtains billowed in at her, with the misting rain behind them. Something else—something wet and shaggy and smelly—dashed in, bounded against her, pawed her legs. Rex, Katherine almost laughed.

She reached down and felt his coat while he sniffed at her. He was drenched. He, like his mistress, had been out through the storm. No one had thought to let him in.

She said, "Do you want to go to bed?" He dashed around her, past her, heading in the direction of the closet where he could find that delectable array of shoes. She hissed after him, "Leave those alone. Come back here," and she heard him stop, and then come pattering back over the rug until his nose brushed her ankle.

She led the way into the bathroom; and he followed her. She smoothed out his rug and saw that there was water in his bowl. She wondered if he'd had any-

Police Hold Miner in School Bombing

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Police said today they were holding a 26-year-old coal miner on an open charge in the dynamiting of the Osage School.

Prosecuting Atty. Stanley R. Cox Jr. would not identify the man, except to say he lived in the small mining community of Osage about four miles from this northern West Virginia town.

Authorities have said they believed the bombing was related to the school's being integrated. They also had expressed belief that the bombing last Monday was set off by outsiders.

The school's 240 pupils, including 60 Negroes, returned to classes today in new quarters. Insurance adjusters declined to estimate the blast damage until all wreckage has been cleared away. Unofficial estimates ranged from $250,000 to $500,000. The building was insured.

About 20 FBI men, headed by E. Hugo Winterrowd of Pittsburgh were assisting state and county officials with the investigation.

In 1860, Izard county grew nearly 1,000,000 pounds of tobacco and production was also heavy in Washington and Benton and Boone counties for a time following the War Between the States.

thing to eat. Probably not. But there was nothing she could do for him. She'd fed him in the morning when she got back.

She closed the bathroom door; through the panels she could still hear Rex snoring. The window had automatically closed itself while she was in the bathroom. It stayed open for 30 seconds, then it slid back into place again.

She pushed the button; it whirled, whined, ground, and opened, and she stepped out cautiously over the sill onto the grass. She waited apprehensively, her fists clenched, but nothing happened. The rain melted softly on her face and into her hair. She did not mind it now; she was dry under the raincoat. Behind her the window softly closed itself. She was sealed off now. She had no choice but to go on.

The lighted house floated in the distance, half screened by the rain, the white windows shining on the wet grass. Nothing moved between her and the house. Either she was not being followed, or her pursuers were more clever than she, able to see in the dark, to fade into the landscape.

Here there was no sort of light, with the trees black over her head, and last year's dead leaves pressing soggly under her shoes. She stopped to listen. Surely, if her own passage had been so noisy, no one else could get quietly. But the only sound she heard were those the woods made by themselves—the rain on the leaves, dripping down into the sticky path; no one was following her.

She turned back toward the clearing, and only then noticed for the first time that the Ravensome's house was dark. She thought: That's funny. I've heard them talk about how late they stayed up.

No one answered her knock, no light showed inside. She thought hopefully: If they're really sound asleep, they might not have heard me. She rapped once again, lightly; but back down off the porch, and then, without waiting to see if it had any more effect, she went started around the side of the house, feeling her way along the wall.

Child Prodigy Trying for a Comeback

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—You may remember Ruth Sienozynska from the headlines of another era. She was the fat little girl who at eight made a spectacular American debut as a pianist, who was called by some critics as "the Mozart of the 20th century" and who went on to earn as much as $3,500 for a single appearance and more than $100,000 in her brief career.

She was the child whose father, a frustrated musician, claimed he "willed her to be a genius," and who, she claimed, ran her life with a technical stiffness and poise that amazed Americans and Europeans. She was the girl who knew 200 musical compositions. Schabert and once filled in when a Paderewski appearance was cancelled. That was Ruth Sienozynska, the child prodigy, whose career ended with the start of World War II, in 1940, when she was 14.

Well, the prodigy is back—as a musician, not a curiosity," she said, in an interview today. Tonight she appears at Town Hall 23 years to the day after her American debut. Then begins a tour which will take her to 50 cities, in 20 states.

Chose Teaching Today, she is an attractive, dark-haired woman of 33. She's just under five feet in height, weighs 103 pounds—"five pounds less than when I last played at Town Hall," she laughed. "At eight, I weighed 103; at 14, I wore a size 16 dress; now I buy fives and sevens."

"I was fat because my father believed that fat was healthy," she said. "I'm a firm believer in cottage cheese." She added that it was not so much diet but "abject poverty" which stunted her down. "I had a choice of teaching music and eating," she said, "or practicing and not eating."

What of the years in between? The pianist said that in 1940, she returned to her native Sacramento, Calif., determined to live a life without her father's dominance. She was accepted as a freshman at the University of California, but her father refused to pay her tuition.

She worked her way through school, as a psychology major, with jobs as junior librarian, gymnasium assistant, and pianist for a post-graduate music course.

Never Forgave Her In 1944, she eloped to Reno with a fellow student, and apparently this was the final break with her father. She said he ordered her out of the house and apparently never forgave her—when he died seven years later, his will left nothing to her.

She returned to work when her husband went into the Army—teaching piano at Meicy College of Music, Carmel, Calif. The marriage ended in 1951, and it was then she resumed her piano studies. The pianist said there no longer is any bitterness toward her father. "I figure he would be proud of me," she said, "but if he were alive I would not have the courage to do what I'm doing."

Other parents can learn a lesson from her case history, she said. "If a child is gifted in any direction—music or mathematics—don't push him just to encourage him. And give a child music for the love of it, don't get off the road as my father did."

She's convinced that prodigies are born, not produced. "You can't make a thistle bear peaches," she laughed. "But peaches cultivated will produce butter."

The first theatrical performance in Little Rock occurred in 1834.

The Salvation Army has 59 camps for children.

Soviet Russia declared war on Japan on August 8, 1945.

Can't See the Invisible Man on TV Show

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Before the start of this season, there was a thin dribble of talk about the next trend in TV — horror and science-fiction shows. Well, so far only one shocker has made it and it's really more of a short-cut. It's called "The Invisible Man" and CBS-TV unceremoniously canceled it Tuesday night. I find the title of the show pretty apt—I can't see it. It's not that there isn't the kernel of an idea for a series in the "Invisible Man" bit. With the crackle of Claude Rains movie. However, the TV series is completely unworkable and the fault lies in the writing which is simply absurd — heavy-footed and clodpated. Also at CBS-TV Tuesday night, Jackie Gleason failed to show as billied on the Arthur Godfrey evening show and Godfrey had to resort to some taped snippets of Gleason in action. Gleason who bowed off the show because of an infected eye and has been rescheduled for Nov. 25. Although the Godfrey evening show was a little lame, the red-head's CBS-TV morning show Tuesday had touches of fire. At one point during the program, Godfrey spoke with some bitterness of a tea sponsor who had left him after 12 years and was now buying spot announcements between Godfrey's quarter hours — people with still think I work for them," said Godfrey. And Godfrey added with some heat: "I call that dirty pool." Short Shots: ABC-TV's "Naked City" continues to funnel out a good sense of city atmosphere in its episodes, but its plots have no sting — they have the dull feel of predictability about them. I liked Molly Berg's lines about TV on the CBS-TV "Garry Moore Show" Tuesday night: "Why criticize TV? When you get something for nothing, that's what you can expect—nothing." The Channel Swim: The latest

Nielsen top ten in order: CBS-TV's "Gunsmoke," NBC-TV's "Dahny Thomas Show," CBS-TV's "Have Gun, Will Travel," NBC-TV's "Wells Fargo," CBS-TV's "Lucy Goes To Mexico" special, CBS-TV's "I've Got A Secret," ABC-TV's "Wyatt Earp," CBS-TV's "Ann Southern Show," ABC-TV's "Cheyenne."

James Donald will co-star with Nina Foch in the NBC-TV special, "Ten Little Indians," Jan. 18—the show will be on tape. ABC-TV's Johnny Carson will emcee his next couple of "Who Do You Trust?" shows from a chair — he injured his foot in an accident at home. Bing Crosby and his wife, Kathy, will do a one hour CBS radio, "Christmas Sing With Bing," Dec. 24. Dave Garraway, who suffered an attack of fatigue Oct. 23, will return to NBC-TV's "Today," Nov. 24. Harry Belafonte, Rehana Tehaldi and Maurice Evans will star in "Adventures In Music," first of a series of live one hour NBC-TV musical specials. NBC-TV's "Arthur Murray Party" will be the first half hour of the CBS-TV "All-Star Jazz

5,485 Polio Cases in the United States
WASHINGTON (AP)—There were 5,485 polio cases in the United States in 1957. The revised final figure, made public today by the Public Health Service is the lowest annual total since 1942 when the total was 4,107. The new total compares with an earlier provisional figure of 5,804 based on weekly reports from the state health departments. The service said it appeared there were 400 cases originally reported as polio, in which the diagnosis could not be confirmed.

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Queen

Mother Elizabeth of England once waited nervously to find out if Sailor's Guide had won a horse race. The whole world was wondering Tuesday who had triumphed in the $100,000 Washington, D.C., International.

Both times there was a foul. And both times Sailor's Guide was on the right side of protests.

Earlier this year, at Melbourne's Flemington track, a foul was claimed against the first place finish of Sailor's Guide in the Queen Elizabeth Stakes. The Queen Mother reportedly had a $40 bet on the Sailor.

She cashed it when the foul was disallowed.

In the International, the circumstances were reversed. Tudor Era had a 3 1/2-length margin over Sailor's Guide at the end of the mile and half grass race. But the Sailor's jockey, Howard Grant, protested he had been bumped by Tudor Era, an English bred owned by Mrs. Herbert Herit of Memphis, Tenn.

There was a 10-minute delay while officials studied films of the first foul lodged in seven runnings of the International. They ruled in favor of Sailor's Guide. The disqualification was the climatic turn in a series of twists in the race which holds a unique position in the turf sport.

The third place finish of Ballymoss was one of them. John McShain of Philadelphia had brought him over for one last race so fellow Americans could see the most highly prized horse out of Ireland in years.

Ballymoss had won his last four races in England and France and was valued at more than a million dollars. But he never was in contention in the International.

Running with the thoroughbreds, he ran, but not enough. In their first appearance outside the Iron Curtain, Zaryard was left behind after six false starts and never caught up with the other nine entries from seven countries. Garnier, the Moscow Derby winner, couldn't get closer than sixth.

Dr. Leon Levy of Philadelphia and two others contracted to buy Sailor's Guide after the International. A. C. Dibb and his son, Keith, gave him up for a reported $50,000.

It was part of $305,000 the Dibbs gleaned from a $1,750 investment. That was all they paid for Sailor's Guide six years ago in auction sales at Sydney. He brought them $184,923 while racing in Australia and the International first prize was $70,000.

Mrs. Herit had to settle for $15,000 second prize. Ballymoss picked up $10,000, and his Irish countrymate, Tharp, owned by Carlton Palmer of New York, won $5,000 for fourth.

Voting was made compulsory in Puerto Rico in 1917.
